DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's Amendment filed on 8-18-03 has been received and entered in the case. The rejections set forth in the previous Office Action are partially maintained as indicated below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. Claims 1, 2 and 4-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the Masatoshi reference (Japanese Patent 10-107627).

Masatoshi discloses in figure 2 a PLL circuit comprising a phase detector 12, a loop filter 16, and a VCO 18 in successively loop-connected; operation stoppage detecting means 20 for detecting that PLL operation has stopped (explained in [0012] and [0013]), said detection being effected on the basis of an output signal from the VCO (see figure), and control means 14 for controlling the VCO such that an oscillating frequency of the voltage control oscillator is low [0041] as partially required by claims 1 and 2. Masatoshi does not disclose a frequency divider as required by claim. However, it is commonly known in the art to have a frequency divider coupled to the feedback signal line for closely matching the frequency of the feedback line to the reference line when a higher frequency output is required at the output of the VCO. (See Prior Art figure 7 and/or any cited references).

Application/Control Number: 09/806,054

Art Unit: 2816

As to claim 4, [0031] discloses the claimed limitation wherein the high-level threshold of the Schmidt is seen as a predetermined value.

As to claim 5, [0034] teaches control means 14 for switching an output of the phase comparator to a value at which an oscillation frequency of the VCO decreases.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 8-18-03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Regarding the rejection of claim 1 under 35 USC 103 by Masatoshi, Applicant has argued that his invention is different from the cited prior art because the present invention's detection is "effected on the basis of an output signal from said VCO or frequency divider".

Examiner respectfully disagrees since DRAWING 2 of Masatoshi shows control means 20 also affected by the output of VCO 18.

Allowable Subject Matter

- 4. Claim 6 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
- 5. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the prior art of record fails to disclose, among other things, the limitation "said control means for switching a comparison signal inputted to the phase comparator" as recited in claim 6

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
